

Write an ALP that reads the first character of the file abc.txt (available on the site itself). If the character is in caps it converts it to small letters and displays, it. If the character is a small letter it converts it to caps and displays, it. If the character read is a special character or numeral it just displays, it.