

Write an ALP that takes in user key press one by one until enter key (OD<sub>H</sub>) is pressed. The characters entered by the user must be stored in a file zyx.txt. The file is not already present; it has to be created. You can assume that user will not enter more than 100 characters (this is only for reserving storage space)